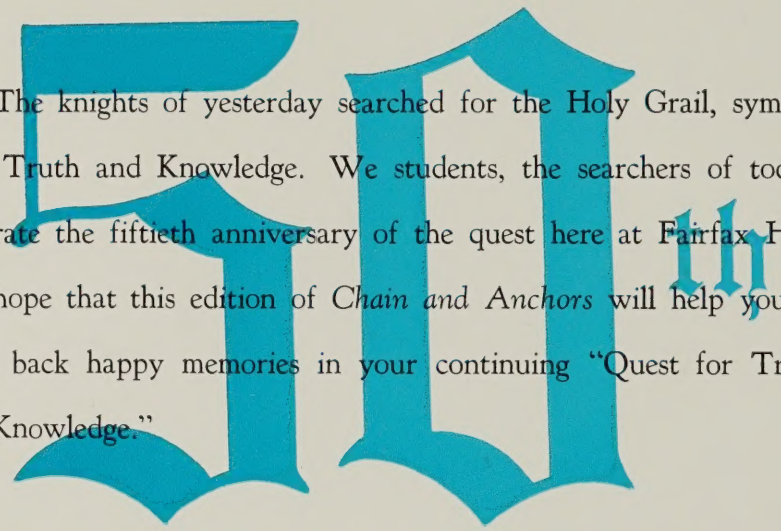
Dedication

Mrs. David H. Parker

We dedicate the 1970 yearbook, Chain and Anchors, to one who has picked us up when we were down and who has shown us the right path when we were led astray, to our guiding star in our quest for "Truth and Knowledge," to our favorite "Blue Phantom," Mrs. David H. Parker.

The 1920's

Foreword



The knights of yesterday searched for the Holy Grail, symbolizing Truth and Knowledge. We students, the searchers of today, celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the quest here at Fairfax Hall. We hope that this edition of Chain and Anchors will help you to bring back happy memories in your continuing "Quest for Truth and Knowledge."

Our 50th Year

Saturday, June 6, rings down the curtain on the 1969-70 session and marks the close of Fairfax Hall's 50th year. Graduation Day this year thus becomes more jubilant than ever because of this anniversary milestone.

Fairfax Hall's birth is chronicled in a local newspaper, The Valley Virginian, on August 6, 1920, in a brief news announcement: "Professor J. Noble Maxwell, president of the new Fairfax Hall, states that the school for young women will be opened in the former Brandon Hotel, purchased for that purpose last summer. Mr. Maxwell, who is a former Stauntonian and during recent years was successful business manager of Lewisburg Seminary, has prepared a handsome catalogue for Fairfax Hall."

A later newspaper article reported: "The opening of Fairfax Hall has made the twin cities (Waynesboro and Basic City) richer by ninety-seven young ladies representing twenty-eight states and foreign countries."

So the new school came into being, succeeding an earlier Brandon Institute which had operated in the same building from 1913 to 1919. Under the Maxwell administration Fairfax Hall made rapid progress both in the academic field and in improvements to the physical plant.

The gymnasium with indoor pool was built in 1926-27, of English half-timbers and stucco on a base of North Carolina granite. The outdoor pool was added as a landscape feature; the stable was built; and extensive plantings of holly, magnolia and dogwood were made on its wooded campus. Following Mr. Maxwell's death on March 26, 1932, the school was headed by his widow, Mrs. Octavia Goode Maxwell, and his late sister, Miss Frances May Maxwell. In June 1936 the Fairfax Hall properties were purchased by the late William Benjamin Gates, Sr., then president of Blackstone College, who established an accredited junior college department, enlarged academic course offerings, and strengthened the physical education and fine arts programs. A freshman dormitory was built in 1948 affording rooms for additional students and improved classroom and laboratory facilities. The junior college department was discontinued in 1956 to concentrate in the preparatory school field.

William Benjamin Gates, Sr., died on July 6, 1959, after serving as president of Fairfax Hall from 1936 and after more than 57 years of service in the field of public and independent school education. He was succeeded by his son, Fairfax Hall's academic dean, William Benjamin Gates, Jr., who continues as the school's fourth chief administrative officer.

Dr. Robbins L. Gates, formerly on the faculty of Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, served as academic dean from September, 1959, to June, 1965, leaving to become a member of the faculty at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton. Deans serving since have included Mrs. Mildred Taylor Smith, Mrs. Evelyn T. Kiser, and Mrs. Mary D. Lawter.

As it was in 1920, the promise of Fairfax Hall's 51st year and the years to come is to help students learn those things which lead to knowledge of and respect for rights and duties; to recognize that freedom is relative to the rights of others; and to develop responsible judgments which enable individuals to stake out as goals those things which are decent and worthwhile.

Fairfax has given me much and held much back for me. It has taught me part of the meaning of love and contentment and the meaning of discontent and rivalry. I leave to you all life, and, with this thought in mind, I leave as a bigger and better person to bigger and better things.

Dear Underclassmen:

There Is Someone Walking Behind You, Turn Around, Look At Me. Before the Class of Seventy Turns Around and is Gone, there is A Song In Our Hearts For You.

The building is old and beginning to lean and when it is gone, all we have left is our Ring. But with each Ring are Memories of Yesterday. Remember when we Dreamed The Impossible Dream of Graduation Day? It was not always easy, but we had to take the Little Things and make them big, and save the times that were just all right, for those that were not so good. We cherish those things, for that is what our love for Fairfax is built on.

Later on in years, when we think of each of you, we can say To Know You Is to Love You. Because We Won't See You in September, we now say make the best of your remaining years at Fairfax. Our day has come and now is gone, so we turn to you to carry on.

And Now That It Is Time for Us to Go, Turn Around.

Sealed with a Kiss,

The Class of Seventy

Sque.e.e.e.e.k! . . . Our gang. . . . Miss Virginia Turner Ashby and her dad. . . . Why don't we sit down and talk this thing out? . . . This guitar is flat! . . . Snow, by Heeenry Gibson. . . . Michael! ! ! . . . I've got the proof I need.

Prophecy of the Class of 1970

While the 20th Century Montagues and Capulets are fighting in the streets, in staggers the class of '70, one by one.

First comes Winnie, designing clothes for the "Executive Branch." Next comes Bianca with eight little mice and a Squeak. Lucilla is now choir director at FMS while Libby strums along on her guitar.

Dorman walked in like "The Computer Who Wore Tennis Shoes," while Debbie Scott walked in with a "Mike" around her neck singing "You Just Keep Me Hanging on." Leslie just bopped in drying herself with a towel after having swum from her private sunfilled island in the Carribean. In comes Charlotte, our Apple Blossom Princess, now head of Bush's Apples.

Murph, now Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, is still deliberating on the long, drawn-out, boring topic of Justice in the Back Room, while Yetta couldn't make it because she's walking up and down in front of the White House still singing "We want our rights." Shelley and Tessie just arrived from our Alma Mater, where Tessie has taken over the English Department, and Shelley, with her love for supervised, is now proctoring study hall.

Susan H. is now starring in the children's production of "Rapunzel," while Michelle is playing the role of Lady Macbeth at Stratford-on-Avon.

Crew has come with autographed copies of her book; a revised version of National Velvet. Noel, the famous artist, has come from The Village where her work is being displayed.

Jill, whose famous figure we see on every magazine cover, and Pam went to Moscow to teach dancing and voice, where they chickened out, and came back to us. Our Kathy has come in between shootings for the Mabelline ads, along with Sarah who is doing ads for Ultrabrite toothpaste.

Fran is away teaching her fifteen children how to play "Mother, May I?" while Cece is teaching her three girls how to play "Red Light, Green Light." Sue B. runs the Coca-Cola bottling plant while Lisa is running around singing "You've got a lot to live." Renee is out in Vegas working as a dealer in one of the casinos. Crowder is now editor of one of the greatest underground papers while Brantner is nursing her ulcers which developed while she was business manager of The New York Times.

Debbie P. has been designing costumes for a Civil War movie, while Ginger is here demonstrating her new dance, the "Turtle". Julie just came from our old Alma Mater where she is teaching riding. Linda is head of the local clean-up committee of Annapolis, Maryland. Robin L. is here from New York where she is head manacurist for Charles of the Ritz. Marshall Metts is about to make her debut at the Met. Boulger just flew in from Frisco where she is writing a contract for Douglas Aircraft. Elizabeth, our top scientist, came in after testing her new drug for fever blisters. Dottie came after taping her new show, "Romper Room." Felicia just flew in from Italy where she bought out all of Pucci's new designs.

Carol drove in from Webster Springs where she was in jail for inciting riots and shocking the townspeople. Vicky came from Hollywood where she is making her new picture, "Esta Noche Es La Vispera." Elaine bought her ticket with profits from her bestseller, The History of the Australian Aborigones. Dr. Robinson is running around analyzing us all while Steph has undertaken to cure us. The closer Jane Johnson gets, the better she looks, our new Miss North Carolina.

Nancy Williams came along with Crowder, for whose paper she is publishing poetry. Terry, our Secretary, is now secretary for the Woman's Club and couldn't be with us for lack of minutes. Clare came with Crew and is now starring in the movie of Crew's version of National Velvet. Amy took the place of the little German man in "Laugh In." Norah is here with her happy marriage to the doctor or lawyer of her choice.

The reunion is over and all of us "Turn Around" to leave once again. As we had before, each of us still remembers our golden years at Fairfax and we "turn around and we are young women with babes of our own."
